

Beispiel - Begleitung zum Hansl Walzer

Volksweise

The image shows four staves of musical notation, likely for a folk waltz titled "Hansl Walzer". Each staff consists of a five-line staff with a basso continuo line below it. The notation uses vertical stems and horizontal dashes to indicate pitch and rhythm. The first three staves are identical, featuring a repeating pattern of measures: B, b, b, A, b, b, A, b, b, B, b, b. The fourth staff begins with a similar pattern: B, b, b, A, b, b, A, b, b, B, b, b, but concludes with a single measure containing a bass note and two vertical stems above it.

A      b      b      B      b      b      B      A      B'      B
